Mom, Dexter to meet PM

Rehtaeh Parsons. New laws related to teen's suicide on agenda

The premier says he will meet with the prime minister this week to press for new laws related to the harassment and death of Cole Harbour teen Rehtaeh Parsons.

"Our world is changing and things which were not possible just 10 or five years ago are now becoming considerable concerns," Premier Darrell Dexter said on Sunday.

Also on Sunday, Rehtaeh's mother and stepfather said they would also be meeting with Prime Minister Stephen Harper on Tuesday to discuss similar details.

"The meeting is ... revolving around changes to the criminal code," Leah Parsons said.

She said she and her partner, Jason Barnes, received an invitation from the Prime Minister's Office on Sunday and have been hurrying to make arrangements to fly to Ottawa to discuss her daughter's death.

Rehtaeh, 17, took her own life this month, two years after allegedly being gang-raped and then harassed by schoolmates when a photo of the incident was circulated on social media.

Dexter said that in his meeting with Harper on Tuesday he is planning to press for changes to the Criminal Code that will make the circulation of intimate images without consent a crime.

"We all know that social media and technology has given rise to many beneficial things ... but the simple fact of the matter is that this same technology has a very dark side," Dexter said.

"That deserves to be reflected through sanctions that are serious enough to make people understand that as a society, we won't tolerate it."

The Smiling Dog helps pet owners down on their luck

HALEY RYAN

A Halifax woman is helping take the financial bite out of dog ownership for those with nowhere else to turn.

Sarah McManaman started The Smiling Dog in December, after watching most of a friend's litter of puppies fall sick and die. The non-profit group helps pet owners who can't afford their veterinarian bills.

"I want to advocate responsible pet ownership, but without being judgmental," McManaman said.

"I don't want to go and tell someone how they should raise their dog, I want to give them the tools and resources that they need to be able to figure it out for themselves."

McManaman, who grew up in the Annapolis Valley and moved to Halifax a few years ago, said her hometown vet made an impact on her when she was younger.

She helped McManaman's family dog after he had been run over, for free.

"Unconditional kindness from people can definitely change a person's life as well as the dogs'," McManaman said.

She thought The Smiling Dog would just be a spay-and-neuter project, but then most

The first woman McManaman helped needed expensive prosthetic legs for her dog.

"Her dog couldn't really go on walks because it was so painful, so it was just lying around," McManaman said.

She helped with the down payment, and then a local prosthetics business allowed the owner to give small amounts at a time.

"It just makes me feel really nice to be able to help people, and she was so appreciative because she wouldn't have been able to afford it otherwise," McManaman said, smiling.

McManaman said she's helped seven dogs so far, and hopes to keep going as long as possible.

She relies entirely on donations, and keeps supporters in the loop by posting photos of the dogs on Facebook and setting a goal for how much money each needs.

"Rescues help the dogs after the problem's happened, so you're getting dogs with behavioural issues," McManaman said.

Hundreds expected to attend funeral for Rita MacNeil

Legend lost. Cape Breton singer-songwriter died last week

Hundreds are expected to come out and pay their respects on Monday to one of this country's best-known entertainers.

Rita MacNeil died last Tuesday of complications following surgery. She was 68.

Her funeral takes place on Monday at 2 p.m. at St. Mary's Church in Big Pond.

When asked how many he's expecting to attend the service on Monday, Father Joe Gillis said it was hard to estimate.

"I don't know how many — we'll know when the day is out how many came," Gillis said. "We can't do much about that — we just have so many spaces and people will have to accommodate themselves to that."

Gillis said the church, which overlooks the Bras d'Or Lakes, holds 250 people and 50 of those seats will be reserved for family.

Up to 450 people will be seated in the nearby fire hall where they will be able to watch the funeral on a live video feed.

If more show up at the church, they may have to wait outdoors.

"They'll be coming in from everywhere, I'm sure," Gillis said. "If it's a fine day, they can stand outside. The church will be filled and the hall will be filled, so they'll just sit on the lawn and look at the lake."

The weather on Monday is expected to be sunny but chilly at 3 C.

Friendly bet. Halifax MP puts pride on the line for Mooseheads playoff run

Megan Leslie will have more than a broken heart to mend if the Halifax Mooseheads fall to the Rouyn-Noranda Huskies in their QMJHL semifinal playoff matchup.

The Halifax MP's pride is at stake.

Leslie and Abitibi-Témiscamingue MP Christine Moore, who represents Rouyn-Noranda, have engaged in a friendly bet that their team will come out on top.

The loser will be forced to wear the opposing team's jersey in the House of Commons for a day.

"The Mooseheads represent the best team in the country and only lost 10 games this season. I am confident," Leslie said in a statement Friday, on the eve of the best-of-seven series beginning.

Potential design. French pitch new warships for Canadian navy vessels

France showcased its latest warship to the federal defence minister Saturday in Halifax, as the Royal Canadian Navy considers options for designs of its next generation of combat vessels.

Peter MacKay toured the 142-metre FREMM-class vessel Aquitaine, viewing the command-and-control systems on the bridge, as well as its engine rooms and missile systems.

MacKay said he came away impressed with the way the ship had centralized consoles for communications, sonar detection and navigation in the bridge area.

"I have never seen ... such an impressive vessel," he said.

The vessel built by French-based DCNS was launched last fall and is being tested with a crew of 94 — less than half the complement of the French navy's previous generation of destroyers.

The publicly owned firm is pitching the vessel as a cheaper design due to a higher level of automation, reducing the need for crew during missions and allowing space for more comfortable living and working quarters than previous French ships.

Capt. Benoit Rouviere, the warship's commander, said the ship costs less to operate and has a crew that performs at a higher level due to the design changes. THE CANADIAN PRESS

On a windy, drizzly Saturday afternoon, about 100 people — and at least a dozen happy dogs — gathered to celebrate the official opening of the Bissett Trail in Cole Harbour.

The ribbon-cutting ceremony was held at the base of Bissett Brook Bridge, a new pedestrian bridge overlooking Bissett Lake that connects an entrance to the trail on Colby Street to Bissett Road.

The bridge, which was completed in December, helps local residents such as Kathleen Richardson-Prager and her dog, Summer, to access the trail. Saturday was their first time visiting and they plan on coming back every week.

"I like how nice and wide the trails are, like if there's another dog coming on the other side, you have a little distance," she said.

Wild inhabitants

While traffic along the trail is mostly human and canine, Charley Sharkey, the chair of construction with the Cole Harbour Parks and Trails Association, explained the trail is home to wildlife including beavers, muskrats, birds and the eastern painted turtle.

The Bissett Trail is the second phase of a project that will link the Forest Hills and Colby Village communities to the Cole Harbour Heritage

Park and to public transit on Colby Road.

It's also the newest addition to the Trans Canada Trail system.

Only 40 per cent of Canada's trails are connected to the Trans Canada Trail. Jane Murphy, the national director of trail, says the goal is to have all trails connected by 2017 — Canada's 150th anniversary and the 25th anniversary of the trail.

"On July 1, 2017, we can have a big party — everyone's on the trail across the country celebrating the Trans Canada Trail," a smiling Murphy said after the event.

Splashy gun-registry events nixed in late 2012

Minister of Public Safety Vic Toews talks about the gun registry during a news conference in Ottawa in February of last year. Public servants spent a month last fall preparing two splashy announcements heralding the destruction of the long-gun registry data only to have the events cancelled at the last moment without explanation. ADRIAN WYLD/THE CANADIAN PRESS

No explanation. At last moment, major national events became 'a note under the door'

Public servants spent a full month, at the "urgent" request of Public Safety Minister Vic Toews, preparing two splashy announcements heralding the destruction of the long-gun registry data — only to have the events cancelled at the last moment without explanation.

The final deletion of millions of registry records last Oct. 31 could be seen as a crowning achievement for a Conservative government that had campaigned against the registry for over a decade. Instead, Toews confirmed the destruction during a closed-door meeting in Regina in a manner that one puzzled gun advocate likens to sliding "a note under the door."

The local delivery was all the more puzzling given the taxpayer-funded resources poured into preparing two major "national" media events to mark the occasion.

As late as mid-afternoon on Oct. 29, less than 24 hours before the first media event, an email was circulated with fully developed plans for the two events attached.

And then, nothing. No events, no speeches, no photos, not even a news release.

Questions about why the communications material was prepared but not delivered were ignored by Toews' office this week. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toews: We can learn from Boston

Lessons can be learned by the explosions at the Boston Marathon, Canada's public safety minister said Sunday.

Canadian security forces are equipped and prepared to respond to these kinds of incidents, Vic Toews told CTV on Sunday.

One important lesson is that all levels of policing and government must work together in the event of a terrorist attack, Toews said.

"We can always learn from this type of horrific experience," Toews said.

"I'm certain that police forces right across Canada are re-examining their plans in order to determine what can we do better in order to prepare for this type of possibility."

War. Vets visit South Korea

JOE LOFARO

Ret. Cpl. Frank Smyth said he wasn't trying to be a hero when he tried relentlessly to join the army two weeks after his 17th birthday, only to be turned away due to his age.

"Even though I kept paying people with bottles of booze to change my records, I kept getting caught," the Korean war veteran told Metro during an interview Saturday. "Someone said, 'Well, why did you want to go?' It's because that's where all my buddies were going."

Smyth is one of 36 Korean War veterans flying to South Korea — some for the first time since the armistice was signed in 1953 — who were gathered in Vancouver ahead of the trip.

Smyth finally arrived in Korea to support his friends after the armistice as a military policeman patrolling the DMZ

Boston bombings. Suspects were planning more attacks, police say

Investigators believe that two brothers suspected in the Boston Marathon bombing were likely planning other attacks based on the cache of weapons uncovered, the city's police commissioner said Sunday.

As Boston-area residents came together in prayer and reflection, the surviving suspect in the bombing lay hospitalized under guard, apparently in no shape for interrogation.

What 19-year-old Dzhokhar Tsarnaev will say and when are unclear. He remained in serious condition two days after being pulled wounded from a boat in a backyard. The capture came at the end of a tense Friday that began with his brother, Tamerlan, dying in a gun battle with police.

There was no immediate word on when Tsarnaev might be charged and what those charges would be. The twin bombings killed three people and wounded more than 180.

Serbia's ruling parties to back deal with Kosovo

Protests. Agreement triggers outrage among nationalists; hundreds in Belgrade Sunday demand ouster of the government

Serbia's ruling parties pledged Sunday to support a landmark agreement to normalize relations with former province Kosovo that could end years of tensions and put both states on a path to European Union membership.

Kosovo, considered by nationalists to be the medieval cradle of the Serbian state and religion, declared independence in 2008. Belgrade has pledged never to recognize the secession.

The EU brokered the tentative deal in Brussels on Friday in talks with the prime ministers of Serbia and Kosovo. The agreement would give Kosovo's ethnic Albanian leadership authority over rebel Kosovo Serbs. In return, the minority Serbs would get wide autonomy within Kosovo. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

India. 5-year-old girl who was raped improves but protests rage in New Delhi

The condition of a 5-year-old girl who was allegedly kidnapped, raped and tortured by a man and then left alone in a locked room in India's capital for two days has improved, a doctor said Sunday, as protests continued over the authorities' handling of the case.

For the second day, hundreds of people protested Sunday outside police headquarters in the capital, angry over allegations that police had ignored complaints by the girl's parents that she was missing.

Justice minister quits: Official

A government spokesman says Egypt's justice minister Ahmed Mekky has submitted his resignation after the president's supporters engaged in violent street clashes with opponents over calls to "cleanse the judiciary."

In his resignation, Mekky mentions a proposed law that could dismiss 3,500 of Egypt's 13,000 judges and prosecution officials by lowering the retirement age.

Selling Old Gold and Silver Jewellery? Common Sense Is Worth Its Weight in Gold.

Skyrocketing gold and silver prices has many consumers wondering how much their old or broken gold jewellery is worth. The question you should be asking yourself is: where do you go to ensure you receive a fair offer? There are plenty of options but which ones pass the common sense test?

Option #1: Antique roadshows and Mall Kiosks. Inflated Promises. False Advertising.

Anyone can post really high payout prices. There are no laws to protect unsuspecting consumers from misleading ads that promise to pay outrageous and unrealistic prices. Unscrupulous companies use them to lure people in, then adjust weights, inaccurately evaluate material (eg. say something is 10kt when it's actually 14kt). The bottom line --people end up with less money in their pocket, not more.

Option #2: Pawnshops and Coin Shows. Hope for the Best.

Most consumers feel uneasy about walking into a pawnshop with their jewellery.

And these coins shows are making exaggerated payout claims to lure you in. The truth is, several of these companies have received harsh criticism from consumer advocacy groups because of their notoriously shady sales tactics and low payouts. So, if those ads featuring cash waving "customers" send a chill down your spine, it's for good reason.

Option #3: Recycle Frog. You Be the Judge.

Recycle Frog, one of the Maritimes' fastest growing and most trusted gold and silver buyers. They have built their business by serving today's more prudent middle and upper-middle-class consumer. Comprised primarily of ex-Royal Canadian Mint employees, their payout rates are published, and consistently rank among the highest in the industry. One-on-one evaluations are conducted at many convenient, public events or pre-scheduled appointments at their Terrace Professional Centre office located at 647 Bedford Hwy, Halifax.

They are a trusted fundraising partner to various charitable organizations including the United Way, Christmas Daddies, and The Canadian Cancer Society, among many others.

Russian billionaire tops U.K.'s rich list

Alisher Usmanov.
Tycoon has interests in mining and Internet companies

After eight years at the top of an annual survey of the wealthiest people in Britain, steel magnate Lakshmi Mit-tal has conceded his place to Russian billionaire Alisher Usmanov.

The Sunday Times, which publishes the list, says Mit-tal's fortune suffered a 21 per cent fall in the past year to 10 billion pounds ($16 billion) as share values in his ArcelorMittal steel business shrank. The Indian-born tycoon dropped to fourth on this year's list.

Usmanov, who owns interests in Russian mining and Internet companies and a stake in Britain's Arsenal soccer club, is valued at 13.3 billion pounds. He owns several homes in the U.K.

In total, the 1,000 wealthiest people named on the list boast a fortune of 450 billion pounds, the highest on record. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

N.J. Bands try out for Margaritaville

Four days and 50 versions of Margaritaville later, talent scouts for the Jimmy Buffett-themed restaurant, music and gambling complex that will open next month have a pretty good idea which acts they'll hire to perform there.

Bands, duos and solo artists travelled for hours to audition last week for a prized spot at the $35 million complex scheduled to open Memorial Day weekend at Resorts Casino Hotel in Atlantic City, N.J.

Requirements include ability to play a wide variety of music, to accommodate audience requests, and, yes, to know

PARSONS CASE IS COMPLICATED

It's complicated.

The Canadian Psychiatric Society, among others, publishes guidelines for reporting on youth suicide. Don't put the word "suicide" in the headline, it says. Don't give such stories undue prominence. Don't describe the method. Don't glorify the victim.

The guidelines are designed to reduce the very real risk of copycats.

We know many media outlets violated those guidelines while reporting Rehtaeh Parsons' suicide.

We can't know — yet — whether that will lead more young people to kill themselves. But we also can't know whether the avalanche of publicity about this horrific incident will encourage as many or more parents to ask their kids the right questions before it's too late, or give some troubled kids the courage to seek the help they need.

What we do know is that publicity about her case has triggered a much-needed public debate about youth sexual assault, cyber-bullying and teen suicide.

It's complicated.

I, for one, worry about the mob mentality unleashed by publicity about Rehtaeh Parsons' suicide. Too many people have been too quick to leap to conclusions based on too little real evidence.

Too many people have been too willing to assume they know all they need to know to become judge, jury and executioner — of the justice system, of the school system, of the boys allegedly responsible.

And yet, I also have to acknowledge that same social media mobilization not only forced the reopening of the criminal investigation of Rehtaeh's alleged sexual assault but has also sparked a broader review of how the system worked, or didn't, and has even led to proposals for new laws, including how to deal with distributing intimate photos without permission.

It's complicated.

Ask Adam Barnes. The 19-year-old Cole Harbour youth was among those "outed" as one of Rehtaeh Parsons' alleged attackers. Vigilantes distributed his photo online. Though he says he wasn't even at the party where the assault allegedly occurred, Barnes now fears for his life. "I always have to worry about who recognizes me," he told CBC News last week. In our rush to end online bullying and win justice for Rehtaeh, will we become the new bullies?

RE: BPA In Most Canadians' Urine, Effects Unknown, published April 17

In the piece, bisphenol A or BPA is identified as being found in plastic "food and beverage containers."

Within the context of beverage containers used to package bottled water and other non-alcoholic consumer beverages, this statement requires clarification.

BPA is not used in the production of PET plastic-based beverage containers, which have been in use by the Canadian beverage industry for more than 25 years.

According to Health Canada,

BPA is used to "make a hard, clear plastic known as polycarbonate, which is used in many consumer products, including reusable water bottles and baby bottles. It is also found in epoxy resins, which act as a protective lining on the inside of metal-based food and beverage cans."

Health Canada further states that "current research tells us the general public need not be concerned. In general, most Canadians are exposed to very low levels of bisphenol A, therefore, it does not pose a health risk."

Carly Rae Jepsen was a big winner Sunday night, taking home the award for single of the year. LIAM RICHARDS/THE CANADIAN PRESS

I just won a ... Juno, baby

Weekend of Jepsen.
Pop singer takes home hardware for her album and bubblegum hit

The 42nd Juno Awards dialled in on Carly Rae Jepsen, celebrating the cheerful singer/songwriter and her rollercoaster summer smash Call Me Maybe with three trophies that all came at the expense of the teen superstar who helped discover her: Justin Bieber.

Jepsen had the biggest haul of the weekend with marquee wins for single, album and pop album of the year — all categories in which the absent 19-year-old pop pinup/tabloid spectacle from Stratford, Ont., was also nominated — at a briskly paced Prairies party at the Brandt Centre.

The Mission, B.C., native seemed particularly stunned that her gold-selling DayGlo valentine to '80s pop Kiss triumphed in the biggest category of the evening, album of the year, over those multi-platinum efforts from Bieber and Celine Dion.

"I'm sorta speechless," she said, having thanked Bieber himself in a previous speech. "This is amazing. Thank you so much."

Seventy-eight-year-old Montreal troubadour Leonard Cohen also had a good weekend in the Saskatchewan capital, wrestling his second Juno of the year — fifth of his career — for songwriter of the year after releasing his platinum-certified Old Ideas. The award was accepted by his son, singer Adam Cohen.

While Bieber might have been licking his wounds after another so-so night of Juno returns, he could be comforted with his fourth career Juno win, this time for the fan choice award. Surely, if the Junos' voting bloc doesn't consider the recently troubled teen worthy of celebration, his droves of devotees still do — it's the third time they've carried him to that particular honour.

And Marianas Trench, the dramatic Vancouver pop outfit, won group of the year despite missing out on other nominations for

Juno fever

Jepsen the star of Saturday

The Juno Awards celebrated Canadian music stars old and new Saturday night as first-time winner Carly Rae Jepsen and veteran Leonard Cohen both scored major prizes while moody R&B singer the Weeknd led the field at a dinner gala where the bulk of the trophies were handed out.

Jepsen, the weekend's premiere nominee with a five-category haul, took pop album of the year over a stacked field that included headline-snatching superstar Justin Bieber, while Cohen won artist of the year over the both of them — his fourth career Juno. THE CANADIAN PRESS their platinum concept record Ever After, while 27-year-old frontman Josh Ramsay also shared in the elation at Jepsen's single of the year win given his co-write of her Skittles-sweet smash.

With the gala's youthful bent, Serena Ryder actually seemed a grizzled veteran next to some of her newbie peers. She won adult alternative album of the year — her fourth career Juno — for her gold-certified Harmony and the husky-voiced singer/songwriter with the astonishing vocal range put in a roof-rattling performance of her propulsive recent hit Stompa.

Talking life:

Interview. Metro's special guests talk about fathers and sons, girls and Jada, Bieber and hip hop, and why Jaden won't party

ELISABETH BRAW
elisabeth.braw@metro.lu

"Will's here," says an assistant.

No kidding. His laugh — familiar from 100 episodes of Fresh Prince — booms across the Hollywood soundstage as he arrives to meet me.

Despite being the single biggest star on the planet, with a net worth of $200 million, Smith still comes off as happy-go-lucky — and happy to laugh at his own jokes.

His son, Jaden, follows behind, serious, yet gracious. A box-office draw in his own right, after The Karate Kid, the 14-year-old toplines their new film After Earth, set 1,000 years into the future.

In it, Jaden's character braves a planet overgrown by wild creatures to save his injured father, played by Smith.

In an intimate, hour-long chat, the two discussed working together, Jaden's musical style and the inevitable: life with mom.

That very week, Jada Pinkett Smith posted a Facebook missive, clarifying earlier statements about her and Will's "open relationship," calling it instead a "grown relationship."

Smith talked about that as best he could, given that his young son sat right there.

You guys work together, live together — but online, I see videos of Jaden skateboarding, talking about girls—

Jaden: Um-hmm. Um-hmm.

So I wondered—

Will: Wait. (To Jaden) You be talking about girls a whole lot?

Jaden: In interviews, Dad. About them. I'm not online, like, "Hey, girls, hello!" (Mimes taking a photo of himself) Tweet!

Will, how aware are you of what Jaden's doing?

Will: Not much at all. Not much at all. That's what I like him to think. (Laughs) I have a group of Men in Black that keep up pretty good.

Jaden: This is what I've realized: No matter what I do or how I do it, he knows 100 per cent of what's going on.

Will: (Laughs)

Jaden: There's no point in hiding anything because he knows. Whether he acts on it or not, he knows.

How do you know he knows?

Jaden: I just know that he knows (Both laugh).

Will: I heard Jaden's friend one time, they were sitting around, talking about something and I came in the room and said, "Hi" and walked out of the room and paused for a second and I hear the friend saying, "Dude, I'm telling you, he knows! He knows!" (Both laugh uproariously)

When was the last time you were punished, Jaden?

Will: We don't do punishment. The way that we deal with our kids is, they are responsible for their lives.

Our concept is, as young as possible, give them as much control over their lives as possible and the concept of punishment, our experience has been — it has a little too much of a negative quality. So when they do things — and you know, Jaden, he's done things — you can do anything you want as long as you can explain to me why that was the right thing to do for your life.

Jaden: It works pretty well.

But most teenagers aren't naturally introspective. Jaden, do you find that you ask yourself deep questions about your behaviour and acting accordingly?

Jaden: Yeah. Other teenagers go to parties and sometimes I be like, "Why am I here right now?" And most of the time, I just leave right then and there. Some things I don't like to do, that other teenagers do. Everyone thinks that since you make movies, you go to parties, and I like to party, but not normal teenage parties.

The second coming

"I mean, people are already telling me I look like him, that I talk and walk like him. If I rapped like him too, people would be like, 'Let's go on the Fresh Prince tour.'" Jaden Smith

Are you missing out on a good ol' fashioned American childhood?

Jaden: Not at all. I go out and skate every night. Hang out with people, skate, hang out with more people, skate to their house.

Will: (To Jaden) What do you see as the purpose and point? So you're not going out and partying — what's the purpose, what's the point, what are you doing?

Jaden: It's not like I don't want to go to parties because I need to study and go to college; I just don't wanna go. If they're gonna play house music, I'm maybe interested, but if it's some random place and they're playing Waka Flocka Flame...

You're anti-generic.

Jaden: Exactly.

Will, how and when did you and Jada decide Jaden could handle a full-fledged movie career?

Will: You can never be certain. You have an idea. You can feel your kids, but until the things in their lives start to unfold and the things they cause begin to have effects, you can never totally see. But we felt that because they were choosing a business that we were both successful in, then at a minimum, we could give good advice.

You used the phrase "they were choosing" but did they choose? Jaden, you were going to the red carpet when you were in diapers.

Jaden: It was not going to the red carpet so people could see us, it was going to the red carpet because we had free tickets.

Will: That's what our life was. The family has a movie so they're going.

Jaden: It started with, our mom is going to the red carpet, she doesn't want to leave us with somebody so she's going to bring us. Then it got to us walking. And then it got to us starring in movies.

Jaden, your music is trippy. It's far from Will's feel-good beats. Is that consciously your own thing?

Jaden: I mean, people are already telling me I look like him, that I talk and walk like him. If I rapped like him too, people would be like, 'Let's go on the Fresh Prince tour.'

Fresh Prince and Fresh Prince Jr. — I would go to that tour.

Jaden: I had to go way left with it because if I came out with a song with me and a bunch of girls in a car with sunglasses on (the Pacific Coast Highway) going, 'Yeah!' they'd go, 'That's the average thing to do.' Instead I came out with the video for The Coolest and people were like, 'Whoa! The camera's going upside down.'

Will, can you even connect to his music, at your age?

Will: At 14, his mind is so much deeper and more complex than my mind was at 14 years old. Lyrically, where he goes and what he creates and how the things are conceptually is beyond what I could create at 14 years old.

Or even later in your career. Miami is not telling a complex story.

Will: Right. Poetically, he's beyond where I ever go to with my music. My strength is ideas. And record structure. I knew how to make records in the way you get to the hook when the crowd wants it.

Jaden: That's what you're really good at. You could go anywhere and be like, "When I say hip, you say hop," and they'll all say it! If I go up there, I'll say, "Alright guys, I'm gonna read you a Shakespearean sonnet real quick, here I go." (Both laugh) The funniest part to me is the music, the old school sound of the music that I have in some of my songs is like what his old school beats used to sound like. It's just different. We're the opposite, but similar in some ways.

The DNA.

Will: That's my seed. Remember where you came from.

Jaden, would you produce Will's album?

Jaden: If you decided, like, "Alright Jaden, I'm serious, I want to make an album" —

Will: Oh, if I was serious?

Jaden: I mean, you have movies to make. Businesses you want to start. You're a busy man.

Will: I see how it is.

Jaden may be too big for you, Will.

Will: I know, I know. He's very serious and very focused and has a very rare combination of talent, desire, willingness and means. Which very, very rarely do those things come together and converge in the proper timing. So I'm excited to see what he decides to do with his life.

Jaden, what happens when you're 18 and Will kicks you out of the house.

Jaden: We'll probably work together till he retires and he probably won't retire.

Will: No we've been talking about, he's been thinking about becoming an emancipated minor.

Jaden: Just thoughts that pop into my head.

They made a movie about that — a girl divorced her parents.

Jaden: Really!

Rent that, get some tips.

Will: No, it's not like that. More the idea that, I want him to have as much command and freedom if he is willing to accept responsibility. Those are two concepts that are inexorably bound. So he's a very responsible young man so he's entitled to the maximum freedom. (To Jaden) I said "inexorably." You heard that? Someone Google that for Jaden.

Justin Bieber, who you're both friends with, has been in the press for some growing pains. Did you learn anything from his last six months?

Will: I talk to Justin once a week and Justin is suffering from immature adulthood in the media and surrounding world. Justin's not doing anything that a normal 19-year-old wouldn't want to do and wouldn't need to do to become a man. The transition from boyhood to manhood is a very difficult transition that he's handling on a world stage better than 95 per cent of the people who talk s— about him.

Bieber's on Twitter. Jaden, you're on Twitter. Will, what's up?

Jaden: He doesn't have one. Usually there'll be people who have a Twitter. He doesn't have one. He likes Facebook.

Will: I got 44 million people on Facebook. I'm just saying. I don't know how many people you got on Twitter.

Jaden: I knew you were going to say that.

Will: I'm just saying, I don't know how many people you got. How many people?

Jaden: Four million.

Will: Four million. Yeah. I got that after my first number.

Jaden: I feel like people on Facebook will just randomly follow just anybody.

Will: (Laughs hysterically)

Jada's on Facebook.

Will: Oh!

Jaden: Oh!

Will + Jaden: Ohhhhhh!

Will: Oh, Mommy be going in!

Jaden: My mom goes in on Facebook! She goes in!

Is she aware other people can read what she writes? (Both laugh loudly)

Jaden: She'll be like—

Will: She'll call a family meeting.

Will + Jaden: (Doing Jada impression) "I'm posting this on Facebook!"

Jaden: (continuing impression) "I don't care what people say. If we get hit for this, this is what the truth of the world is." Uh, OK mom. She'll be on the phone with a manager, "I don't care what they said, I'm posting this on Facebook." I think she should write a book.

Will: Jada is very serious and opinionated and she loves Facebook because it's the only place she's ever had where she's felt like all of her can be received. She's struggled her whole life where only a part of her is OK.

In her posts, she can take a generality and break it down into a truth. She posted recently about you having a "grown relationship."

Will: A "grown relationship." (Looks down.)

Anything to add?

Will: She put some serious, hardcore truth out there. (Pauses) And I think, the five minutes we have left, aren't gonna be enough to cover it.

OK, on to the Earth Day issue then?

Will: Yes! Earth Day! Please!

The future. 24/7 health monitors, no cars: how we'll live our lives in 30 years, when Jaden Smith is his father's age

WELCOME TO

BRAW

elisabeth.braw@metro.lu

Thirty years ago, in 1983, people didn't surf the Internet or talk on cellphones. There was no space tourism and supermarkets didn't stock their shelves with genetically engineered food. Now look 30 years into the future. You'll see yourself using performance-enhancing drugs, artificial limbs — and only speak to other humans infrequently.

"Evolution has come to an end," says Rohit Talwar, CEO of forecasting company Fast Future. "Physically, we humans are not developing anymore, so in the future we'll use all sorts of enhancement drugs to improve our abilities — for example, our cognition. Up to 90 per cent of university students already admit to using cognition-aiding substances."

In other words, we'll try to make ourselves smarter — and more successful in school and at work — by taking drugs. And we'll go about our smarter lives in better bodies. Futurists predict widespread use of artificial limbs, which may function even better than our natural ones. "And most of us will have the equivalent of an external hard drive," predicts Talwar. "Like computers, we'll have memory in the cloud. And this is already happening, since cellphones essentially function like our external hard drives."

Indeed, technology will define our lives to a degree unimaginable today. "You think cellphones dominate our lives today?" asks Dutch futurist Erwin Van Lun. "2043 will be incomparable! Cellphones won't even exist anymore. We'll have a world where every window is a cellphone and camera. People will communicate through these windows in a very natural way, asking it about everything from their bank account balance to philosophical questions."

But there's a darker side, too. "We'll essentially be bots," notes Josh Calder, founder of forecasting firm Foresight Alliance. "Artificial intelligence will regulate every aspect of our lives, including our social lives. Artificial systems will help us connect with others because they can tell us who's like us. Of course, that's what's already happening on some dating websites." The chance encounter, the love-at-first-sight romance will be history as human interaction is reduced to a minimum, a luxury even. And as humans become islands connected by AI systems, politics will be reduced to a micro-sphere — your neighbourhood — and the heaviest macro issues, like foreign policy.

Perhaps even more worryingly, AI will put us out of work. "Because AI will be so pervasive, a large part of the workforce won't be needed," predicts Calder. "There's nothing that isn't partially doable by a bot. In order to avoid mass poverty, governments will have to pay all these people a stipend. Of course, if humans want other humans to perform a task, they can choose that option, even if it costs more. And humans will find work assisting AI systems. For example, any human can say, 'I just saw a dog jumping through a hoop'. AI systems can't do that easily."

And, even as they're making us redundant in the workplace, AI systems will be watching over us. "You'll be monitored 24/7 by your phone and be told whether you're having health issues, like a heart attack," elaborates Talwar. "That will drive health-care costs down because preventative care is cheaper."

Of course, a country can choose to minimize the role of AI. But it will do so at its own peril, as other countries steam ahead to AI-assisted economic success. Of course, these scenarios may not happen at all. The world could run out of energy, or there may not be enough money.

But, futurists agree, AI is here to stay and run our lives. Being a servant to computers, using artificial limbs, depending on drugs for your mental output: what's the point of putting children into such a world?

"But by not having kids you're just giving up on the future, because then the future will just be populated by the progeny of the oblivious," reflects Calder. "And while there may be aspects of the future that seem alarming to us, they will seem normal to our children. Humans are very resilient."

Technology. 'In 2043, computers will speak the language of humans'

ERWIN
VAN LUN
Marketing Futurist
CEO/Founder Chatbots.org

Only 20 years ago, the Internet was opened to the public. Being the greatest innovation since the invention of the printing press, it has revolutionized the world. However, the revolution has just begun. In 2043, computers will speak the language of humans. They will no longer look like machines, but like real humans, the most natural interface ever introduced. These virtual humans will live in the cloud, not restricted to any "device." They will express emotions like humans, speak our language, even dialects, and understand our — often local — gestures. These AI characters will appear on floating, transparent camera screens, which will be as cheap as plastic bags today, and spread in all parts of the world, including the now-developing countries. Their incarnation, the humanoid robots, will assist us with many physical tasks. We'll work a lot less, maximum 15 hours per week, allowing us to focus on our core competence: being human.

Leisure. Why pay for airfare when you can walk the Grand Canyon at home?

L. CHRISTOPHER KENT
Co-Founder of futures consulting firm Foresight Alliance.

The leisure of 2043 will be immersive. Cheap storage and easy recording mean any experience can be captured and replayed or modified. So gamers will be able to play against “real” professional athletes and, instead of reality TV, viewers can experience living the life of their favourite star — premieres! parties! shopping! — through footage licensed for use by the celebrity. Readers will have the option of reading the story or participating as a character. The same holds true for movies and television. Traveltainment will be popular, especially if climate change premiums on airfare put flying out of reach for many consumers. Tourists can walk the Grand Canyon or visit the Antarctic glaciers in their homes. Leisure time will be extended in most cases by the use of drones, robots, and 3D printing, all of which allow for tremendous time and labour savings, though for the workers in some industries, this could be an unwelcome development.

Work. We'll be happy, thin and work 6 to 10 jobs in our long lifetimes

ROHIT TALWAR
Futurist professional speaker and CEO of the foresight research firm Fast Future Research.

Entire industries will be transformed by advances such as 4D printing that will enable us to print objects that can actually change their properties and behaviour over time. Service industries and professional work will be impacted by artificial intelligence. In this world, careers will be transformed. Increasingly we'll take the option of studying online for free on courses run by major providers such as Harvard, with our coursework marked by AI programs. With life expectancy rising to 100 and beyond in developed economies, the idea of a career will change. We could easily have six to 10 careers over a working life that extends into our 90's. To cope in an intensely competitive world we'll use a variety of human enhancements to make us smarter, fitter and more effective. For example, we'll have bio-engineered body parts and exoskeletons and use smart drugs and electronic stimulus techniques. And advances in genetics have the potential to control conditions such as anger, stress and obesity.

WILL & JADEN

Metro's Special Guests take a look at what the world will be like in 2043, when Jaden is Will's age. The conclusion? An eerie resemblance to one of the latter Smith's earlier blockbuster films.

1 Mechanical arms?

Will: Yes, that's true. You can just have one for fun.

Jaden: I'd be one of those old school guys that's like, “No, all that new technology. I don't need one.”

Will: (In old man voice) “Newfangled technology. All these kids. People lived for thousands of years with no metal arms. Now every Tom, Dick and Harry got a new metal knee.”

2 Drugs that make you smarter?

Jaden: OK, I have a lot to say about this.

Will: Oh jeez.

Jaden: They've been storing information on DNA—they have made DNA—

Will: This is where we go too far.

Jaden: They have stored all of Shakespeare's sonnets on something this big (holds up small tape recorder). Now if they can put information into artificial DNA cells, then I feel they could apply that to our DNA in our brain and we'll be able to download things onto our bodies.

Will: That's deep.

3 Experts also say we become bots. Is this positive?

Will: Yes. All forward movement, even when it doesn't feel good, is positive.

Jaden: That's how I, Robot happened, just so you know.

Will: OK. Maybe he's right. Maybe it's not good.

Rob Stewart is worried about what the Earth will look like in 100 years. HANDOUT

Our survival on Earth 'is in jeopardy,' filmmaker says

Revolution. Toronto's Rob Stewart's latest film has humans in midst of another near extinction

scene@metronews.ca

To hear filmmaker Rob Stewart tell it, global events like today's Earth Day should be viewed more as grim reminders of the tough path ahead than as a celebration.

"We're in a really delicate situation right now where our survival is in jeopardy," says the director. "We've got to do something fast."

The dire straits Stewart describes take centre stage in the Toronto native's latest film, Revolution, which lays groundwork of humanity's survival plan for the next 100 years. "We follow life as a character through 3.5 billion years of evolution," he says. "Five mass extinctions almost wiped life off the face of the planet culminating with humans in the midst of another one of these extinctions." Escapist cinema this is not.

Stewart, a wildlife photographer turned environmental activist, recognizes that fear mongering isn't the way to draw people to your cause — appealing to their humanity is. "We've got to get an emotional reaction out of the public so that they care about it," he says. "We thought that following me around as a character would be a good way to do that."

The film opens with Stewart on press junkets promoting Sharkwater, his debut film about shark finning. During this period he realized that all his efforts to save sharks would be in vain if their entire eco-system were to collapse. From there he details the effects of ocean acidification as a result of over-consumption. By the time the credits roll, Stewart is knee-deep in the fervent activist movement coalescing around efforts to stop the destruction of the environment.

Never a fan of politics, Stewart nevertheless sees activism as the place where average Joes can make a difference. "If this was a spectator sport, we would have won already. But it's not. We're going down the tubes fast."

The list of problems facing our planet — climate change, ocean-acidification — and the factors that created this situation, roll off Stewart's tongue with ease. But he's not all doom and gloom; his optimistic outlook is palpable, making him an ideal spokesperson for the cause. Yet it's the younger generation who he's banking on.

"There's an opportunity for kids to become heroes for the eco-systems that we love. And I think this generation is going to make more heroes than ever before because we're engaging in the biggest battle humanity's ever been in," he says.

"It's going to be wicked to see what happens and it's going to call the best in humanity to the height of their potential."

Witherspoon and husband arrested after traffic stop

Oscar-winning actress Reese Witherspoon and her husband, talent agent Jim Toth, were arrested in Atlanta, Ga., this weekend after Toth was pulled over under suspicion of driving while intoxicated, police officials confirm to Variety.

Witherspoon was booked on a disorderly conduct charge after verbally sparring with police officers and disregarding their commands, according to the report.

"Mrs. Witherspoon began to hang out the window and say that she did not believe that I was a real police officer," according to the police report.

"I told Mrs. Witherspoon to sit on her butt and be quiet. Mrs. Witherspoon asked, 'Do you know my name?' I answered, 'No, I don't need to know your name.' Mrs. Witherspoon stated, 'You're about to find out who I am. You are going to be on national news.' I advised Mrs. Witherspoon that was fine."

Both Witherspoon and Toth were jailed briefly early Sunday morning before being released.

Neither have released a statement.

Breakup or no breakup, Justin Bieber and Selena Gomez just can't seem to keep away from each other.

The Spring Breakers star reportedly headed to Norway late last week and arrived just in time to be waiting backstage after Bieber's Oslo concert, according to Us Weekly.

"They have a crazy connection," a source says. "They just can't seem to break their connection. It can be intense."

How intense? Bieber was recently spotted clutching his iPhone — which apparently has a recent photo of Gomez as its screen saver.

Family brands you shouldn't wear proudly

IT'S ALL RELATIVE
Kathy Buckworth,
kathybuckworth.com

We all know that expression "there's no such thing as bad PR." Actually, there is. (Remember Michael Richards?) And bad public relations around your family can haunt you for years at a school, in a neighbourhood or during get-togethers with relatives. Some family branding and publicity should be avoided at all costs:

- Yelling Family: One of my personal favourites — the screeching mom, the angry teenagers, the loud bursts of a daddy baritone ... love these guys. They make the rest of us feel civil and proud. Yell on, fine people.

- Late Family: No matter what you are expecting them for — school, a wedding, a family gathering, a dinner party, or picking up your kid for hockey — these folks simply cannot arrive anywhere on time. You've tried, oh you've tried ... nothing works. This is their lifestyle.

- Disaster Family: This is the family who always manages to have at least one member fall sick or get injured on a vacation; routinely has something blow up, get wet, or collapse in their house; and has the best excuses for missing school concerts (the bulldozer drove through our basement), parent-teacher interviews (the water line to the fridge exploded in my face), or the last game of the hockey playoffs (the back tire just flew off as we drove down the highway).

Event planning.

Organizing an event that pleases both parents and kids can be done — we promise

NATALIE SHURE

Metro World News in New York

With her L.A.-based company Chic Events, Rachel Hollis has dreamed up parties for every occasion.

She's even managed to pick up tricks to help parents please crowds of all ages.

How can party planning be more manageable for people with small children?

Have courage; people are going to be so appreciative of anything you do! Go with your strengths. If you don't know how to cook, but make good cocktails, great! You can get the food from a local restaurant. Do the things you're good at. Give yourself wiggle room on things you're less familiar with.

How can parents involve their kids?

I like to keep them busy and out of my hair. I'll often say, "Go to the backyard and find three branches and two pretty flowers," and I'll incorporate those things into the decor. It becomes a game for them.

What is the most common party-planning mistake you've seen?

Many people don't give themselves enough time. Plan like a Boy Scout. Always be prepared.

Think of the event as two separate parties — one for adults and the other for kids. ISTOCK

RECYCLE WITH STYLE AT VALUE VILLAGE

Shopping and donating at Value Village provides a great way for customers to reduce, reuse and recycle.

There are many ways consumers can make small changes in their daily habits in order to have a positive impact on the environment, from switching to energy-efficient light bulbs and eco-friendly cleaning products to carrying reusable shopping bags. What many don't realize is that one of the easiest ways to "go green" is by shopping thrift. When you shop at Value Village stores and donate reusable items to its non-profit partners, you are keeping goods out of landfills and giving pre-loved treasures a brand new life.

"We know that families across Canada are clearing out their clutter and getting organized with spring cleaning," says Tony Shumpert, vice-president of recycling operations for Value Village. "By donating these items, instead of simply throwing them away, you can give back to your community and save quality goods from polluting the Earth. In fact, Value Village operates one of the largest recycling programs in the world, saving more than 600 million pounds of goods from landfills last year alone."

So how does it work? Every Value Village location partners with a charitable organization in its community, including Canadian Diabetes Association, Big Brothers Big Sisters of Greater Halifax and New Brunswick Association for Shopping thrift is a great way to snag fashionable clothing and one-of-a-kind accessories, collectibles, books and household items for a bargain. Value Village purchases its merchandise from more than 60 non-profit offices across Canada, which allows each store to stock nearly 100,000 items on its sales floor each and every day. So the selection is ever-changing and always fresh.

Community Living. All year round, each store pays its non-profit partner for every donated item, including clothing, housewares, books and more. Over the past 10 years, Value Village has purchased more than $1.5 billion of goods from its partners — turning otherwise unused items into sustainable funding that supports the non-profit's vital community programs and services.

The highest quality items are priced at a great value and displayed on Value Village's sales floors for purchase, while merchandise not suitable for resale is responsibly recycled.

Residents with clothing or household goods to donate can call participating non-profits for a home pickup or drop off their items at convenient Community Donation Centres located at every Value Village store.

Find success in your new setting

New world of work.
Just arrived to Canada?
Here's how to prepare for your first interview

YLVA
VAN BUUREN
CareerBear.com

Job interviews are stressful at the best of times, but when you are new to Canada and still figuring your way around, those interviews can be downright scary. A lack of confidence about Canadian culture and customs can make the interview process that much more challenging.

"To help with the jitters, practise your interview skills beforehand," advises Haris Blentic, manager of Dixon Hall Employment Services Centre in Toronto. Dixon Hall is a community agency that offers mock interviews so job seekers can review their speaking skills, body language and approach to one of life's most stressful scenarios.

Check with your local employment office as more and more community agencies are offering mock interviews, says Blentic.

Here's your game plan:

Don't be too shy: Steer clear of simple yes or no answers. Elaborate and provide specific examples. ISTOCK

Be on time

Arriving late gets you a low score before you have taken off your coat. Account for travel time. If you can, do a test run in advance. Plan to arrive 10 minutes early.

Prepare ahead

Do some research online (at the library or employment office) so you understand the job you are applying for and how to dress for success. If it's an office job, you'll need to wear the appropriate clothing. If it's a warehouse job and casual clothes such as jeans are acceptable, it's still important to look tidy. If you're short on funds, there are organizations that provide professional attire for men and women. Try dressforsuccess.org and careergear.org.

Mute it

Turn off any electronic device that you carry. "I've seen it happen where a cellphone rings and interrupts an interview," says Blentic. "That's never good form."

Accentuate answers with examples

"The more concrete examples you provide the better you look," says Blentic. Instead of saying you did blood work in a medical lab, say you have experience drawing blood, labelling samples and that you worked for a lab for several years.

VOLUNTEER CENTRES GET TRAINING

The federal government/Volunteer Canada partnership recently announced it is providing training to more than 120 volunteer centres.

“Our government is committed to the safety and security of all Canadians, including those who are most vulnerable — like children and the elderly,” said Minister of Public Safety Vic Toews. “Through the training provided in conjunction with Volunteer Canada and the volunteer screening handbook, our government is responding to a call from organizations to help them better screen volunteers and provide community service organizations invaluable tools to improve the safety and quality of programs whose volunteers and employees are in trusted positions.”

“Effective volunteer screening is vital to the health of Canada’s voluntary sector,” said Paula Speevak Sladowski, Volunteer Canada’s interim president and chief operating officer. “It helps organizations achieve better volunteer matching, improved safety and quality of programs, and reduced risks and liability. Volunteer Canada is very pleased to collaborate with the government of Canada on this initiative, and we are grateful for the commitment of our partners who have received the training — local volunteer centres and national non-profits alike.”

In October 2012, Public Safety Canada launched the Screening Handbook and partnered with Volunteer Canada to develop training materials and to offer “train the trainer” sessions based on the Screening Handbook for national, provincial and community volunteer organizations.

Through its training, Volunteer Canada has reached more than 700 community organizations and has made an outstanding contribution in helping to prevent abuse, and build safe and resilient communities. The Volunteer Canada training sessions were held in volunteer centres across Canada throughout February and March, and were designed to help organizations better screen volunteers.

Volunteer Canada’s commitment to providing leadership and resources across the country is supported by organizations such as Big Brothers Big Sisters and the Victorian Order of Nurses.

ADVICE FOR HIRING VOLUNTEERS

The volunteer Screening Handbook — a tool for organizations serving communities and vulnerable members of society, including children and seniors — was launched by Public Safety Canada and Volunteer Canada in October 2012.

The handbook is an invaluable tool for community service organizations to improve the safety and quality of programs whose volunteers and employees are in trusted positions.

Organizations and individuals can use the information in the handbook, whether they have longstanding screening practices, are new to screening, or are revising or developing their screening practices. The handbook sets out a standard of care for volunteer organizations including those serving people who are vulnerable. Its 10 Steps to Screening and the Canadian Code for Volunteer Involvement recognize the importance of volunteer involvement in society, as well as volunteers’ responsibilities.

Frk heroic as Moose top Huskies in OT

Round 3. Top line combines for 11 points as Halifax grabs 2-0 lead in semifinal series

andrew.rankin@metronews.ca

The Halifax Mooseheads showed their playoff mettle on Sunday night.

Going into the third period down 4-2 to the Rouyn-Noranda Huskies, the Herd stormed back with three unanswered goals en route to a thrilling 5-4 overtime victory before 10,138 fans at the Metro Centre.

Martin Frk played hero, netting the OT winner just over seven minutes in on the power play, his second of the night and third point.

The Czech forward was quick to play down his heroics.

"I got great passes from Nate (MacKinnon) and Jo (Drouin), everyone can see that," Frk said. "I'm so happy."

With the win, the Mooseheads take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven semifinal series, with Game 3 set for Tuesday in Rouyn-Noranda.

Apart from letting a two-goal cushion slip away, the Huskies took back-to-back penalties just 13 seconds apart in the extra frame. The Herd's lethal power-play unit capitalized on this just seconds after Rouyn-Noranda's first penalty

"We knew going into the third we had to step it up, and Nate got us going with a really big goal and momentum shifted right away," said Drouin, who picked up a goal and three assists to give him nine points for the series.

Huskies head coach Andre Tourigny took the dramatic loss in stride. Although disappointed, he said his squad proved it could go toe to toe with the No. 1-ranked junior team in Canada.

"It was a tough loss, but at the same time we proved that we're right there," said Tourigny, whose team lost Game 1 on Saturday 6-4. "It's a boost of confidence. How many teams forced the Mooseheads into overtime at home? We're really confident in ourselves right now."

MacKinnon followed up his three-goal performance on Saturday with a goal and three assists.

Andrew Ryan collected the game-tying goal at the 13:19 mark of the third on Sunday to round out the scoring for the Herd.

After giving up four goals on 14 shots in the opening period, Mooseheads netminder Zach Fucale shut the door the rest of the game.

Jean-Sebastien Dea, Marcus Power, Maxime St-Cyr and Sven Andrighetto all scored in Huskies captain and former Moosehead Gabriel Desjardins admitted it was a painful loss.

"We were so close, it's very hard," he said. "But we will be ready for Tuesday."

Title fight on the line for Grant at UFC 160

T.J. Grant's next UFC fight has suddenly got even bigger.

The UFC has announced that the winner of the fight between Grant and Gray Maynard at UFC 160 at MGM Grand Garden Arena in Las Vegas on May 25 will get a shot at Benson Henderson's lightweight title.

Grant, who is from Cole

Harbour, took to Twitter on Sunday to talk about easily his biggest-ever mixed martial arts fight.

"Thanks to everyone for their support. It's a great opportunity for me and I can't wait to fight for the chance to get a title shot!" he wrote.

Grant, ranked seventh in the lightweight division, has

Gibbons confident in Jays' progress

MLB. Blue Jays avoid sweep at hands of Yankees as they prepare to hit the road

This time the rally stuck.

One day after an 11th-inning defensive blunder spoiled a Toronto comeback, the Blue Jays reeled off six straight runs Sunday afternoon to down the New York Yankees 8-4 and avert a series sweep.

Toronto (8-11) heads off to Baltimore for three games and then to New York for four, thinking it may finally be heading down the right road after a wobbly start.

"We still have that feeling inside that we're close — to breaking out and getting everything going in the right direction," manager John Gibbons said.

"Baseball, since you do play every day, is a emotional roller-coaster," he added. "So many ups and downs. We haven't really had that good feeling (yet)... We've got a good ball club. We just think it's a matter of time. Maybe today's something that will get us going."

There were a lot of contributors to Sunday's win.

With Toronto trailing 4-2, Brett Lawrie doubled home two runs in a four-run sixth inning. J.P. Arencibia hit his seventh homer one inning later to keep the comeback cooking.

Adam Lind tied a club record with four consecutive walks, Melky Cabrera went 3-for-4 and Colby Rasmus went 2-for-3, driving in a run with a timely hit off a left-hander.

Munenori Kawasaki, in his first crack at leading off, scored and drove in a run in the first two innings.

And the Toronto bullpen — in the form of Brett Cecil (1-0), Esmil Rogers and Darren Oliver — delivered 3 2/3 innings of scoreless relief.

The Blue Jays opened the scoring for just the sixth time this season (it has won five of those games). It also marked the first time in eight games — an 8-4 win in Kansas City on April 17 — that it had scored more than four runs.
